

A SEAL SKIN SAGUE

In a Comedy Which is Performed in a Philadelphia Court.

A VICTORY WITHOUT TRIUMPH.

Funny Fate of a New York Man—The Astonished Judge Quietly Impounded the Coat and then Ordered it Surrendered to the Despoiled and Defeated Sailor.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—The decidedly unique but nevertheless highly interesting experience which H. H. Silverman, a New York furrier, has just had behind the scenes in Judge Breyer's court has doubtless given him some strange impressions of Philadelphia justice.

On Christmas, five years ago, E. H. Parry, a well-known Market street hatter, gave expression to a loving impulse that moved his heart by presenting his wife with a seal skin sague. He purchased it from his New York friend Silverman.

Mrs. Parry luxuriated in the elegant garment for two years, but at the end of this period her figure had expanded until the sague was too small. It was sent to Silverman to enlarge, but when it came back it appeared even smaller, though Mrs. Parry stoutly maintained that she had not grown any more during the interval. Again it was sent to New York and again it came back even smaller. This performance was repeated three times and then Mr. Parry, having concluded that the coat had been doctored to the point of ruin, declined to receive it, and sued Mr. Silverman for its value, which he placed at $150. It had originally cost $250.

A COAT APPEARS IN COURT.

Such was the matter of fact history of the vicissitudes of Mrs. Parry's seal skin coat, as related at the trial in Judge Breyer's court. But every case has two sides and this was no exception. Mr. Silverman denied the impeachment that the coat was too small and ruined by alteration. He was willing to let the garment speak for him. Accordingly he produced a fine sague, and much to the delight of the jury and spectators, Mrs. Parry was induced to try it on in the witness box. It fitted her splendidly and the sympathies of the spectators went out for the New Yorker. "You enlarged this coat, did you not?" asked Lawyer Leonard R. Fletcher, counsel for the Parrys, of the furrier.

Mr. Silverman and several of his employees testified positively that the coat was enlarged by the insertion of a seven inch strip of seal skin in the side. "Was new lining put in when the alteration was made?" then asked the lawyer. To this the New Yorker replied: "No." "Then how did you get this seven inches of fur in without enlarging the lining?" asked Mr. Fletcher as he held up the garment to show that the lining was not only not picked, but apparently unworn.

"THAT IS NOT MY SAGUE."

But the New Yorkers replied to this by ripping open the lining and showing the seams of the fur skin. Sure enough there were seams in the fur indicating an insertion of additional material.

"That, however, is not my sague," said Mrs. Parry from the stand again. "This coat is much handsomer than mine, and the lining in mine was worn. I would like to have this coat," she added, "for it fits me better than mine ever did."

Then Lawyer Fletcher charged that the New Yorkers had brought over another sague to win the suit. But the jury, all the same, gave the verdict for the visitor, and Lawyers Conston and Driver, his counsel, were supremely happy. Judge Breyer, however, looked amazed and he frowned sternly. He called one of the victorious attorneys up to the bench and whispered in his ear: "I impound that article," he said to the amazed lawyer, "I charge you, as an officer of this court, to see that it does not go back to New York."

AN UNNATURAL SON

In Company With a Crook He Attempts to Rob His Mother's Store.

Boston, Mass., December 10.—A bold attempt at robbery was made Tuesday evening in Newton. Mrs. Bridget Carney keeps a grocery store on River street, and at 7 o'clock two men entered the place and demanded the contents of the till. Both had their hats pulled over their faces and she did not recognize them at once. On her refusing to comply with their demand they threatened to kill her. At that moment Mrs. Carney was horrified at discovering that one of them was her own son, Joseph, who had been in New York for the past few days, and had returned unknown to her. Joseph forced his mother to bring him to the store, still demanding money and calling on his companion, who proved to be Frank Denno, of New York, to assist in making the woman comply. Denno drew a knife and told Mrs. Carney that he would stab her if she did not hand over the money. Mrs. Carney said that if allowed to get up she would give her son the money. She went into the adjoining room and took the opportunity to leave the house. She had not proceeded far, however, when with weakness and fright, she fell in a faint. When she recovered consciousness she went to the police station, and informed the officers what had occurred and had the men arrested.

BIG MOONSHINE RAID.

Revenue Officers Capture Illicit Still in Southern Tennessee.

TELLAHOMA, TENN., Dec. 10.—One of the most successful raids on illicit stills in Southern Tennessee and Northern Alabama has just been made. On December 3, General Deputy Collector J. L. Spurr, accompanied by Deputy Marshals Strong and Orange and Storekeeper Robertson, left Tellahoma for a raid on the moonshiners on the Tennessee and Alabama line. They returned last night and report the capture of two large stills, together with several thousand gallons of beer and other materials. The stills were located on the bank waters of Little Coon creek, about ten miles from Stevenson, Ala., and in a rugged mountainous region of North Alabama. They had been in operation for a long time and were doing a thriving business. The owners of the stills were inclined to fight, but were driven off. The officers managed to evade a conflict by destroying the stills and getting out of the locality, as the moonshiners were evidently hunting help. No arrests were made.

THE EXISTING TARIFF.

Secretary Foster Shows Its Beneficent Workings—The Consumer Does Not Pay the Tax.

From the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury.

At my request the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics has prepared a special report on our foreign commerce for comparative periods under the old and new tariffs, which furnishes a striking exhibit of the practical effect of the new law.

The existing tariff went into effect on October 1, 1890, under its operations during the twelve months ending September 30, 1891, the first five days of October being under the old tariff, the value of imports of merchandise was $24,719,507, an increase of $11,247,116 over the value of imports of the corresponding months of the preceding year. Of this total the value of free goods was $27,322,107, an increase of $18,022,430 over the value of free imports during the corresponding months of the previous year. The proportion of merchandise admitted free was 48.18 per cent of the total importation, as against 33.12 per cent for the preceding year, thus exceeding the proportion of free goods under any previous tariff for a corresponding period.

For the six months ending September 30, 1891, during which sugar has been admitted free, the proportion of free importations was 55.37 per cent, as against 33.27 per cent for the corresponding months of the preceding year. For six months ending March 31, 1891, when sugar was dutiable under the new tariff, the free importations were 40.68 per cent, and for the corresponding period of the preceding year, under the old tariff, they were 35.18 per cent of the total importation.

The articles now admitted free of duty are chiefly necessities of life, such as sugar, tea, coffee, and other articles which are not largely produced in this country, and do not successfully compete with our domestic productions.

The removal of the duty on sugar has reduced its price to the consumer, and this result is not in conflict with the doctrine of protection to home industries, because the limited domestic production of sugar under the most favorable protective rates was not sufficient to influence the price in the home market.

The report of the chief of the bureau of statistics is accompanied by tables showing that prices to the consumer of manufactured articles, as a rule, have not been increased, but have been reduced.

The receipts from customs for the year ending September 30, 1891, during the last six months of which sugar was free, were $196,279,634.00, as against $238,784,929.71 for the preceding year, a decrease of $42,505,295.71.

During the twelve months ending September 30, the value of our exports of merchandise was $223,091,136, as against $260,177,175 for the previous twelve months, an increase of $37,086,039. Under the operations of the new tariff the customs revenue has been decreased as far as is consistent with the current needs of the government. By the readjustment of duties in the line of protection to American labor and American industries, the free list has been enlarged by the addition of articles which from climate or other conditions are not produced profitably, or extensively, in this country; adequate protective duties have been imposed upon articles that come into competition with our own productions; new industries have been established and others stimulated, thereby giving increased employment to American labor, and better control of our home market to our own people; and the price of nearly every article of common consumption has been reduced to the consumer.

Inasmuch as a considerable portion of our revenues must be derived from duties on imports, it is the part of wisdom and patriotism to so adjust the rates as to have regard first to the interests of our own people and the right demands of American labor for remunerative wages.

I do not believe that any considerable number of the people desire to see our manufacturing industries destroyed or wages reduced to the European basis, which would be the inevitable result of a reduction of duties, with a view to revenue only.

A comparison of the prices of goods imported respectively under the old and new tariffs where rates have been increased will demonstrate that the tariff is a tax fixed upon the foreign competitor in our markets in the sale of such articles as are extensively produced here, and that the duties are in fact taxes deducted from the foreign market value and are paid by the foreigner as a tax for the privilege of selling his goods here at prices fixed by our own people competing among themselves in their own market.

Dr. O. C. McCulloch Dead.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Dec. 10.—Rev. Oscar C. McCulloch, a pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church, and one of the greatest philanthropists and charity workers in the west, died at his home in this city this morning, aged forty-eight years.

A man who has practiced medicine for forty years ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:

Texas, O., Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co., Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most forty years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly,

L. J. Gonscutt, M. D., Office, 215 Summit street.

We will give $100 for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.

"Eight Bells."

Trimrose & West's Comedy Company will present at the Opera House on Monday evening for the first time here the Nautical pantomime comedy, "Eight Bells," which has proved to be among the most conspicuous successes of this season's amusements. The world-famous acrobatic pantomimists, the Brothers Byrne, head the cast, and have a rare opportunity to display their abilities, with wonderful pantomimic tricks. "Eight Bells" is in three acts, the scenes being laid in England on the English channel and on the coast of France. Charles Fitzgerald, who is in love with Rose O'Connor, wounds a man in a duel and leaves the country; while on board a vessel he meets Daniel McGee, and the two exchange names, from which many complications arise.

The Ship Encounters a Storm.

The ship encounters a storm, and while she is pitching and tossing there is an interesting scene which finally terminates the act by a wreck and complete revolving of the ship. The third act, the rescued passengers are found on the coast, merrymaking in celebration of the rescue. Then there are some choice specialties, juggling and music, also Mr. Tom Browne, the great Whistler.

The Jefferson Engagement.

To-morrow evening Mr. Joseph Jefferson and a company of well known and popular actors will appear at the Opera House in "The Rivals." It is not once in a year that as attractive an engagement is secured for a Wheeling theatre, and it is a matter for congratulation that the advance sale of seats shows a proper appreciation on the part of the local public. Speaking of a performance in that city the New York Tribune of October 15 last says:

"The Stowaway."

If popularity is to be regarded as a criterion of merit, then the palm must be awarded to "The Stowaway," as it has proved to be one of the most popular dramatic productions seen on either side of the Atlantic in many years. This play which was so pronouncedly successful on the occasion of its last visit to Wheeling, is the zenith of its brilliant career, and its presentation here this season promises to eclipse in both artistic and financial sense that of last year. The scenery to be shown this season is entirely new, the famous yacht scene being a wonderful example of the scene painter's art. "Spike" Hennessy and "Kid" McCoy, the duo of celebrated safe blowers, remain with the company, and at every performance they "burglarize" a real safe with neatness and dispatch.

RULES FOR GOOD HEALTH.

Eat plain food. Be regular in your habits. Wear woolen clothing the year round. Do not work immediately after eating. Keep the feet comfortable and well protected. Exercise in the open air when the weather permits. If possible, go to bed at the same hour every night.

In malarious districts do your walking in the middle of the day.

Keep your blood warm and circulating. You can do this best by exercise and pure stimulants. Do not indulge in stimulants, although it is desirable to do so, unless you know they are pure and medicinal.

Fear in mind the unquestionable fact that there is no stimulant so good as whiskey, and only one good medicinal whiskey, namely, Duffy's Pure Malt. No matter what your drug habit or grocer may say, bear in mind the above great truth, and you will be healthier, live longer and feel happier.

Mr. DeWitt is a party in the oil case, Stevenson vs. DeWitt, and is here in the interests of his case as depositions are being taken. He had risen to retire at a late hour and as he was standing the shot was fired at him through the window. The person who fired the shot and his motives are not known. The police have failed to get any clue to the would-be murderer. There is some mystery about the matter, as Mr. DeWitt is not known to have any personal enemies around here.

A BATTLE IN CHINA.

LOSDON, Dec. 10.—Dispatches from Peking state that owing to the delay that has occurred in getting the Mongolian troops together the plans of Li Hung Chang, the viceroy, to surround the rebels, has not proved a success. Another battle has been fought, however, between the imperial troops and the rebels, and the latter were routed and dispersed. This battle is believed to be the one concluding which the Chinese legation here received advices yesterday stating that the insurgents had sustained a most crushing defeat, and that their annihilation was a question of only a short time.

The Grip Attacks Horses.

VIENNA, Dec. 10.—Influenza is epidemic in upper Austria and a number of people have been prostrated. The disease attacked the horses in the stables attached to the large dragoon barracks at Wels, and its ravages were particularly severe. A large number of horses have died, and many more are still incapable of being used.

Remarkable Facts.

Heart disease is usually supposed to be incurable, but when properly treated a large proportion of cases can be cured. Thus Mrs. Elmina Hatch, of Elkhart, Ind., and Mrs. Mary L. Baker, of Ovid, Mich., were cured after suffering 20 years. S. C. Linburger, druggist at San Jose, Ill., says that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which cured the former, "worked wonders for his wife." Levi Logan, of Buchanan, Mich., who had heart disease for 30 years, says two bottles cured him "fed like a new man." Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold and guaranteed by the Logan Drug Co.
